RP10

Welcome to the Ready to Perform (RP10) questionnaire. The RP10 is designed to gauge how capture data on a number of attitudes, feelings and behaviours associated with performance. The RP10 is a great indicator of how you might be performing. It can help you see how your performance changes over time, and you could use it as a tool to measure the impact of actively working on your performance (for example by taking part in one of our programmes, by working with a coach on an individual basis, or simply by engaging in some reading and reflecting). It's also a great tool to complete if you want a timely reminder or prompt to get you thinking about your performance!

To get the most out of this tool, you should be as open and honest as possible. Don't think excessively before responding to each question, and to bear in mind that there are no right or wrong answers. The aim is to merely get a snapshot of how you're feeling on a number of performance areas, which will help you (and others) track your performance and ensure what you're doing to work on it is having the right impact!

We'd suggest you complete the RP10 at least twice a week. Try to complete it at the same time points each week. So, for example, if on the first week, you've filled it in on Monday lunchtime and Thursday morning, complete it at those times on every subsequent week. It helps ensure that really meaningful and helpful data is captured.
